

Andrew Goldberg Honored as Midwest Trailblazer by The American Lawyer

05.02.2022

The American Lawyer named Managing Partner Andrew Goldberg to its 2022 Midwest Trailblazers list for his exceptional work helping clients combat employee shortages to keep businesses running amid economic turmoil.

When COVID-19 necessitated rapid foundational transformations to workforces across the country, Andy took action to ensure the safety of the Laner Muchin community. Helping lead a complete shift to remote working, he helped make sure the firm continued to provide excellent service to clients, including bringing unions and companies throughout the country together to protect jobs, preserve workforces and keep business open.

Throughout the COVID-19 crisis, Andy has helped clients reshape their work environments from top to bottom and adapt to never-before-seen employment challenges. This includes advising on imperative changes to safety precautions and the development of policies and prevention measures customized for specific employee and management structures to maintain employee safety.

Before the pandemic, Andy helped employers mitigate challenges during the 2008 financial crisis. He negotiated new entry-level agreements to aid the labor market and reimagined how employers recruit, interview, train and reward employees. By effectively negotiating labor agreements and understanding the individual needs of unions and companies, Andy positions his clients to maintain business operations and keep workers on the job.
